PUNK ROCK TOUR GETS A BASHING

THE punk rock tour of the 'notorious Sex Pistols' is slowly biting the dust.

Nine of the group's concerts have been cancelled following their foul-mouthed TV performance on Wednesday.

Now the Sex Pistols stand to lose thousands of pounds as a result of the cancellations.

Among the concerts called off were last night's at Norwich and tomorrow's at Newcastle.

And today the group must play before a panel of councillors at Derby before it is decided whether they can play in the city tonight.

Last night scores of sympathisers defended Thames TV's Bill Grundy over his interview with the group.

A Thames spokesman said: "They phoned in saying that they could not understand why he was suspended when it was the group who used foul language."
