

24 bleeps in Pistols interview

Disc-jockey Tony Prince pre-recorded his controversial interview with the "punk rock" group the Sex Pistols on Saturday night and had to "bleep out" 24 offensive words.

The 20-minute interview was broadcast later on Radio Luxembourg.

Mr. Prince was suspended on Friday when he refused to interview the group unless it went out live. But on Saturday he backed down and agreed to pre-record the interview.
