Concerts

Frank Zappa visits Britain and the Hammersmith Odeon on February 9 and 10.
 £3 and £3.50 are available to personal callers from the box office.
Racing Cars, one of the most promising new bands around, are in concert tonight (Thursday) at the Nashville Rooms in West Kensington.
Carol Grimes, one of Britain's most talented female vocalists, is appearing at the Fulham Golden Lion.

ANOTHER Christmas concert cancellation has been announced this week — the Sex Pistols' Boxing night gig at the London Roxy Theatre in Harlesden.
 However, there's still plenty to look forward to in the way of concerts.
 Irish guitar wizard Rory Gallagher is appearing at the Hammersmith Odeon on January 19 and 20 as part of his customary Christmas tour.
 Tickets, priced between £2 and £5 are still available for the two Abba concerts at the Royal Albert Hall on February 14. A week later, on February 21, Gallagher and Lyle finish their New Year's tour with a show at the Royal Albert Hall. Tickets are from £1 to £3.
Frank Zappa will be making one of his rare British visits in the New Year, and will be appearing at the Hammersmith Odeon on February 9 and 10.
 Tickets, at £2, £2.50.

Exhibitions

graphs have been taken all over England by Robert Golden and Sarah Cox. It is billed to record an industrial run down and the people's angry response.
 The exhibition is open until January 6 and the nearest tube station to the exhibition is Aldgate East.
 Twenty photographic pictures by David Hockney, which he uses as a source of material for his paintings, are on show at the Robert Self Gallery.

 The nearest tube station to the Gallery is Covent Garden, and the exhibition will be on show until January 11.
 Of course the most popular exhibition in London at the moment is at the Royal Academy of Arts. "Pomeii AD 79" is the title and it covers arts and artifacts buried by the eruption of Vesuvius in AD79.
 The exhibition will remain in London until February 27. The nearest tube station is Piccadilly Circus.
 Another popular exhibition which will be on display until January 16 is "Sacred Circles." On show at the Hayward Gallery in South Bank it displays 2,000 years of North American Indian Art.

AT THE Victoria and Albert museum there is a rare opportunity to see a private press.
 The press if from Stanbrook Abbey and has been run by the nuns for 100 years. The exhibition is on show until February 13. The nearest tube station to the museum is South Kensington.
 At the Half Moon Gallery in Aile Street there is a topical exhibition — "The Right to Work."

CHRISTMAS is traditionally a family occasion when all relations and friends celebrate the festive season together.
 The children will be eager to see one of the many pantomimes that will be on show all over London.
 There are several famous actors starring in a production of Cinderella at the Richmond Theatre. Aimi McDonald, Bill Pertwee and Roy Kinnear name but a few you will be able to see in the production which starts on December 18.

Watford Palace Theatre offers Jack and the Beanstalk, which is a traditional family pantomime with an hilarious dame, leggy principal boy and this season, an adorable oanto cow.
 You will find the Watford Palace Theatre in Clarendon Road, Watford and the pantomime will run until January 15.

 The ice spectacular this year at the Empire Pool, Wembley is Sleeping Beauty which will be well worth a visit.
Gerry Cottle's Circus is performing its Christmas Spectacular under the Big Top on Clapham Common.

For the family

For booking information telephone 223 2661.
 There is a new children's play by Willis Hall at the Show Theatre in Euston Road, called Christmas Crackers. Another Children's play is Pinocchio which is on at the New Land Theatre in Drury Lane, featuring the DaSilva puppets.
